7. Description:

This building is estimated by the Clayton County Assessor to have been built in 1890. However, Sanborn Maps do not show a 2-story building in 1895, 1902, 1913, or 1930. The first map to include the full building is 1951. It is possible that an earlier building depicted in a historic photograph was present on part of the property and incorporated into a reworking of the showroom and garage completed in ca. 1948. The Clayton County Assessor's property card covering the years 1949 – 1965 shows indicates the building was constructed in 1948. Property transfer records and a newspaper account indicate that the building was constructed in several stages with a garage addition begun sometime during the summer of 1948.

The Cheeseman Building at 203 South Main Street was built as a vernacular Broad Front commercial building form. The 2-story masonry building has mottled tan colored brick for the walls and a concrete block rear and south wall. An examination of the brick veneered front indicates that the present brick was applied to an earlier dark red brick surface that appears along the south edge of the building. This red brick is likely the brick that appears in the ca. 1920 photo at the end of this form. The only brick ornamentation are parallel courses of projecting brick that forms a band along the parapet.

The present front façade covers a width of 72 feet. Three passage doors are evenly spaced along the lower level with a former auto service bay infilled at the south end with shingle cladding and a single-light window. The north two-thirds of the lower level has wide plate glass windows flanking the main entrance. The north passage door leads to the upper level. A long fixed awning is covered in wood shake shingles and was installed in 1995. The upper level of the building has four widely spaced 1/1 double-hung windows in the north two-thirds of the wall. On the rear wall overlooking the Turkey River, industrial metal windows with multiple lights and both operable and fixed sash are present.

8. Significance:

The Cheeseman Building at 203 South Main Street was built as Broad Front 2-story commercial building, a design frequently chosen for auto showroom buildings or garages. The building is a contributing resource in the Elkader Downtown Historic District because of its retained form, finish and simplified detailing. The district derives significance under both Criteria A and C. Under these criteria, the district's commercial buildings are associated with the historic contexts developed for the downtown in the "Architectural and Historical Resources of the Elkader Downtown Historic District" Multiple Property Documentation form covering the years 1846 to 1960.

Elkader Downtown Historic District Background:

The town of Elkader was laid out in 1846 along the banks of the Turkey River approximately 16 miles upstream from the Turkey River's confluence with the Mississippi River. The town was surveyed and laid out in 1846 with the Original Town Plat filed in June 22, 1846 by Timothy Davis, Chester Sage and John Thompson, friends and business partners, who began operating a sawmill on North Front (Main) Street in 1845 before the town was even platted. By 1849 they had a successful flour mill in operation. The new town was named for Abd el-Kader, an Algerian freedom fighter and world figure who was admired by Davis. The principal building stimulating development in the 1840s and 1850s was the Elkader Mill. After 1860 when the Clayton County voters selected Elkader as the permanent county seat, the downtown saw a variety of merchants set up shops, several hotels open, a number of newspapers begin publication, and small manufacturing concerns get underway in the city center. Elkader numbered 440 residents in 1860.

The new county court house saw its first section completed in 1869 opposite the downtown. New limestone buildings were erected along both North and South Main Street with public halls frequently located on upper floors. During the 1870s and 1880s 2-story brick buildings began replacing frame business houses. A permanent railroad connection was completed by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul RR in 1886 but service remained poor as Elkader was located at the end of a spur rather than along a main line route. A more important transportation improvement during the 1880s was the completion of the Keystone Bridge across the Turkey River in 1880. Its completion prompted a period of economic vitality and community investment. The community was officially incorporated two years later in 1891 and a new waterworks system and city well were completed in 1896. Electricity was rejected by locals until the end of the decade in 1900, however. In the meantime, new churches were built in 1897 for the Congregationalists on the east side of the river and in 1897-1899 for the Catholics on the west side of the river. Coupled with a series of major fires during the 1890s, the downtown saw a period of rebuilding with a new hotel and bank at the entrance to the business district at the turn of the century. The new opera house was completed on North Main Street while other 2 and 3-story brick blocks appeared both north and south of Bridge Street.

By 1900, Elkader's population stood at its peak of 1,321 – an increase of 77 percent during the decade of the 1890s. Development continued in the downtown before and after World War I but at a much slower pace. Floods and fires damaged the Elkader Mill in 1902, 1906 and 1908, but it was nevertheless rebuilt by Schmidt Brothers & Co., retaining a key employer and anchor for Elkader's downtown. The business district began to extend to the west before and after the war with the principal changes seen along West Bridge Street. Here livery stables and wagon shops were replaced by automobile dealerships, implement companies and filling stations. Five stations eventually located along West Bridge with a sixth one block to the south along First Street SW. The national economic depression of the 1930s was coupled by the closing of the Elkader Mill in 1939 following a major fire. Natural disasters after World War I included major floods in 1922, 1947, and 1958 with a tornado destroying section of South Main Street in 1958 as well.

Despite these natural and human made disasters, Elkader saw steady but modest population growth from 1,223 in 1920 to 1,526 in 1960. The impact of the automobile was seen in traffic patterns, parking patterns, and traffic signs and the introduction of electricity saw several generations of street lighting come and go. The popularity of the opera house waned and the first floor became the municipal fire station while two movie houses came and one stayed in the downtown drawing evening crowds for entertainment and shopping. As many as 130 people resided in downtown flats during this period. A good system of inter and intra-state highways connected Elkader and its downtown to other parts of the state and country in a way that railroads had never served the community. By 1960, downtown Elkader was well-established as one of several geographically dispersed retail centers serving Clayton County. Virtually every storefront was filled with start-up businesses or multi-generational family stores as Elkader's downtown achieved a stable and healthy status for local and countywide residents.

Historic Background for the Cheeseman Building at 203 South Main Street:

The Cheeseman Building at 203 South Main Street was built in ca. 1948 by William (father), Dale and Byron (sons) Cheeseman, owners of Cheeseman Garage and dealers for Kaiser, Frazer and Jeep Cars in the late 1940s. In 1953 after only seven years in operation on South Main Street, the Cheesemans sold their building to Donald and William McTaggart, owners of the McTaggart Furniture Store, which was located next door at 201 South Main Street. The two floors of the former auto garage were remodeled and used for the business's furniture display and interior decorating studio until 1990. The property was sold to Brian and Margaret Leonard at that time for use as Elkader Wellness Center with space provided for a gymnasium, exercise rooms and locker rooms. The building was sold to Colleen Henderson in 2005 and in 2009 she transferred it to Andrew Armstrong, the current owner, who operates Drews Bar and Grille from the building in 2011.
