7. Description:

This building is estimated by the Clayton County Assessor to have been built in 1890. The building was not in place until sometime between 1895 and 1902 according to the Sanborn Maps for Elkader published in those years. Newspaper accounts date construction of the building between August and November 1899. A building date of 1899 is consistent with the design of the building and public records.

The Wolf Building at 112 N. Main Street is an example of a late Italianate Style commercial building. This 2-story narrow front building has a limestone foundation, reddish-brown colored brick walls, a flat roof set behind a bracketed cornice made of embossed metal, and a front façade divided into three bays. The Wolf Building has an elaborate bracketed cornice with fan designs set between brackets and dentils along the wide crown molding at the top of the parapet.

On the upper level, the building has three individual 1/1 double-hung windows topped by segmental arches consisting of a double row of raised header bricks and stone sills. The remodeled storefront retains the entrance to the upper level on the left side of the first floor with the balance of the first floor consisting of an offset recessed entrance, plate glass display windows above brick paneled bases to either side, and a flared hipped roof awning clad in asphalt shingles over the shop space.

8. Significance:

The Wolf Building at 112 N. Main Street is an example of a late Italianate Style commercial building. The building occupies a site along North Main Street and is a contributing resource in the Elkader Downtown Historic District. The district derives significance under both Criteria A and C. Under Criterion A, the district's commercial buildings are associated with the historic contexts developed for the downtown in the "Architectural and Historical Resources of the Elkader Downtown Historic District" Multiple Property Documentation form covering the years 1846 to 1960. Under Criterion C, the building's Italianate Style design is representative of commercial architectural development that took place from the 1880s through the turn of the 20th century in the downtown.

Elkader Downtown Historic District Background:

The town of Elkader was laid out in 1846 along the banks of the Turkey River approximately 16 miles upstream from the Turkey River's confluence with the Mississippi River. The town was surveyed and laid out in 1846 with the Original Town Plat filed in June 22, 1846 by Timothy Davis, Chester Sage and John Thompson, friends and business partners, who began operating a sawmill on North Front (Main) Street in 1845 before the town was even platted. By 1849 they had a successful flour mill in operation. The new town was named for Abd el-Kader, an Algerian freedom fighter and world figure who was admired by Davis. The principal building stimulating development in the 1840s and 1850s was the Elkader Mill. After 1860 when the Clayton County voters selected Elkader as the permanent county seat, the downtown saw a variety of merchants set up shops, several hotels open, a number of newspapers begin publication, and small manufacturing concerns get underway in the city center. Elkader numbered 440 residents in 1860.

The new county court house saw its first section completed in 1869 opposite the downtown. New limestone buildings were erected along both North and South Main Street with public halls frequently located on upper floors. During the 1870s and 1880s 2-story brick buildings began replacing frame business houses. A permanent railroad connection was completed by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul RR in 1886 but service remained poor as Elkader was located at the end of a spur rather than along a main line route. A more important transportation improvement during the 1880s was the completion of the Keystone Bridge across the Turkey River in 1880. Its completion prompted a period of economic vitality and community investment. The community was officially incorporated two years later in 1891 and a new waterworks system and city well were completed in 1896. Electricity was rejected by locals until the end of the decade in 1900, however. In the meantime, new churches were built in 1897 for the Congregationalists on the east side of the river and in 1897-1899 for the Catholics on the west side of the river. Coupled with a series of major fires during the 1890s, the downtown saw a period of rebuilding with a new hotel and bank at the entrance to the business district at the turn of the century. The new opera house was completed on North Main Street while other 2 and 3-story brick blocks appeared both north and south of Bridge Street.

By 1900, Elkader's population stood at its peak of 1,321 – an increase of 77 percent during the decade of the 1890s. Development continued in the downtown before and after World War I but at a much slower pace. Floods and fires damaged the Elkader Mill in 1902, 1906 and 1908, but it was nevertheless rebuilt by Schmidt Brothers & Co., retaining a key employer and anchor for Elkader's downtown. The business district began to extend to the west before and after the war with the principal changes seen along West Bridge Street. Here livery stables and wagon shops were replaced by automobile dealerships, implement companies and filling stations. Five stations eventually located along West Bridge with a sixth one block to the south along First Street SW. The national economic depression of the 1930s was coupled by the closing of the Elkader Mill in 1939 following a major fire. Natural disasters after World War I included major floods in 1922, 1947, and 1958 with a tornado destroying section of South Main Street in 1958 as well.

Despite these natural and human made disasters, Elkader saw steady but modest population growth from 1,223 in 1920 to 1,526 in 1960. The impact of the automobile was seen in traffic patterns, parking patterns, and traffic signs and the introduction of electricity saw several generations of street lighting come and go. The popularity of the opera house waned and the first floor became the municipal fire station while two movie houses came and one stayed in the downtown drawing evening crowds for entertainment and shopping. As many as 130 people resided in downtown flats during this period. A good system of inter and intra-state highways connected Elkader and its downtown to other parts of the state and country in a way that railroads had never served the community. By 1960, downtown Elkader was well-established as one of several geographically dispersed retail centers serving Clayton County. Virtually every storefront was filled with start-up businesses or multi-generational family stores as Elkader's downtown achieved a stable and healthy status for local and countywide residents.

Historic Background for the Wolf Building at 112 N. Main Street:

In June 1899 fire destroyed the Borman Building at the northeast corner of Main and Bridge streets. Among the important rebuilding projects that took place in the wake of this fire and the damage done to buildings to the north, was the construction of a new brick building to house the harness business of Wolf and Wolf. Work on the project commenced after George C. Wolf (the son) was able to acquire the property from the Cassutt family to build a new 61 by 20 foot two-story brick building to house the family harness business with a flat on the upper level.

Contractors for the project were Jerry Cassidy, foundation and cellar; R.J. Ellis, brick work; Hofter and Hartman, carpentry; Brown and Bahr, plumbing and roofing; and Wilbur Partch, painting. George C. Wolf served as supervisor. The business was opened on November 1, 1899 containing a fine display of harness, saddles, and bridles. The business also purchased hides and tallow. Three years later, the partnership dissolved with George C. Wolf continuing the business and occupying the upper level flat.

In 1926 the building was acquired by Augusta Baars who operated a grocery store here. In 1930 it was remodeled and leased to G.A. Hagen with his I.G.A. Grocery Store. By the mid 1930s the business reverted to operation as "Baars Grocery." Near the end of World War II and Augusta Baars death, the building was sold to Julius Pahlas. In early 1945 he remodeled the building to house his jewelry store. Among the more interesting features of the remodeling according to an April 12, 1945 newspaper account was the installation of native oak flooring harvested from Pikes Peak State Park.

In 1960, the Pahlas Jewelry Store was sold to Dale and JoAnn Ishman. They established Ishman Jewelry Store acquiring the building in 1978. Ishman Jewelry continues to occupy the shop space in 2011.
